Storytelling
FESTIVAL
 Douglas County Libraries

Folktales – stories from yesterday, for tomorrow.

Featuring:

Heather Forest - Huntington, New York

Heather Forest's unique minstrel style of storytelling blends guitar, poetry, prose, and the spoken word within her repertoire of world folktales. An award-winning recording artist and children's author. She has received Parent's Choice Gold Award, Storytelling World Honor Recording Award, Bookseller's Pick of the Lists, and Circle of Excellence Award from National Storytelling Association.

John Stansfield - Monument, Colorado

Since 1979, John has performed tales and ballads from the West and the world. Wilderness advocate, historian, and award-winning author, he has been called "Storyteller Extraordinaire" by the Kennedy Center Imagination Celebration of Colorado Springs.

Paul Taylor - Australia and Laramie, Wyoming

Australian storyteller, musician, and world traveler, Paul Taylor worked with the Aboriginal people in Australia's far north, where he took up the musical tradition of the didgeridoo. The Austin Chronicle calls him "Didgeridoo and storytelling master, the ever charming and funny Paul Taylor."
